J. HANKIN

This year grows full like a mother heavy with babe and a new time will begin with the first cry-day of the new year with the first cry-day of the new child the child is innocent
the child is pure
and evil
and hate
are unknown to it
as unknown to the new year day receive its purity
receive its innocence
let the child and the year
know love
know peace

theme

1970. a new decade. . . a new life. these past ten years have seen many amazing things. but perhaps the most surprising—and the most wonderful—was the recognition of the young people of this world as a responsible force of change.

but there's not much sense in recounting all the movements, leaders, marches, songs, films, lessons, struggles, books and styles that we've influenced or instituted. that's all behind us now—a rich heritage of caring and committing.

what is important now is the road which lies ahead. for the first time we will be given a voice in determining the direction and the goals of that path. we accept the responsibility of change, realizing that if we do not, we might not be given that opportunity to live out our lives as we should.

we want to make this world a place to live in, not a place where men come to die! indeed, all we are saying is to give peace a chance.

and the rest will follow.

dedication

a tiny hand reaches out in the darkness, clutching a ball of fire.
the fist unclenches and we look upon the sun. . .

to all those who will come after us,
to these little ones,
in innocence and grace,
we dedicate our yearbook.

hoping, as we grow in years and experience, we never lose the wonder and why of childhood.

no war is worth the tears of one child, much less the life of one.

albert camus

i must dance and sing,
youth is such a lovely thing.

alice thomas

respect the child.
be not too much his parent.
trespass not on his solitude.
ralph waldo emerson

the sublimest song to be heard on earth is the lisping of the human soul on the lips of children.

victor hugo

to hell with all arms, excepten those grandly grafted to our human bodies. these arms are all we need to give glory to God and all honor to man!

sean o'casey

i've been listening to the people and one thing i understand a great flood is rising fast and there's a rumbling in the land.

tom paxton

they are one person
they are two alone
they are three together they are for each other.

graham nash

and the words of the prophets are written on the subway walls and tenement halls.

simon and garfunkel

we have a very serious announcement. newer and bluer meanies have been reported in your vicinity. we would like to suggest that you... start singing!

beatles

come and sing a simple song of freedom.
sing it like you've never done before.
let it fill the air, tell the people everywhere we the people here don't want a war.

MAURICE BLEIFELD, Principal

June, 1970

Dear Graduate,

Congratulations on completing your high school education.

Like the astronauts who first landed on the moon almost a year ago and took that famous "small step for a man and a giant leap for mankind," you too are now ready to take your own big step forward.

As you move out into the future, I hope you will take time, occasionally, to reflect on what your school has tried to equip you with -- a desire to keep learning, faith in our basic American ideals, consideration for the rights of others, and respect for the dignity of your fellow man.

Try to put these ideals into action. In this way, you can help make our planet, which appeared so blue and beautiful to the astronauts as they looked at it from the moon, the kind of place where all the people on it can live together in peace and harmony.

Best wishes for success, happiness and health.

Sincerely,

Maurice Bleifeld

Maurice Bleifeld
Principal

my primary duties relate to organization and administration. organization deals primarily with the structure of the school and administration deals primarily with the functioning of the organization.

"a school is organized that it may be administered—administered that it may be supervised—supervised that it may be taught."

the end result of all school responsibilities should be effective and meaningful instruction.

mr. martin b. kaye

administrative assistants

mrs. ida s. shapiro

i take very seriously my responsibility as assistant principal and coordinator of guidance to "help shape students and their environment in such a way as to increase the probability that they will make life choices appropriate to their abilities and personality."

that sounds like a large order—and it is—but along with the many faculty members who have put their expertise and interest at your service, i find it a challenging and infinitely rewarding task.

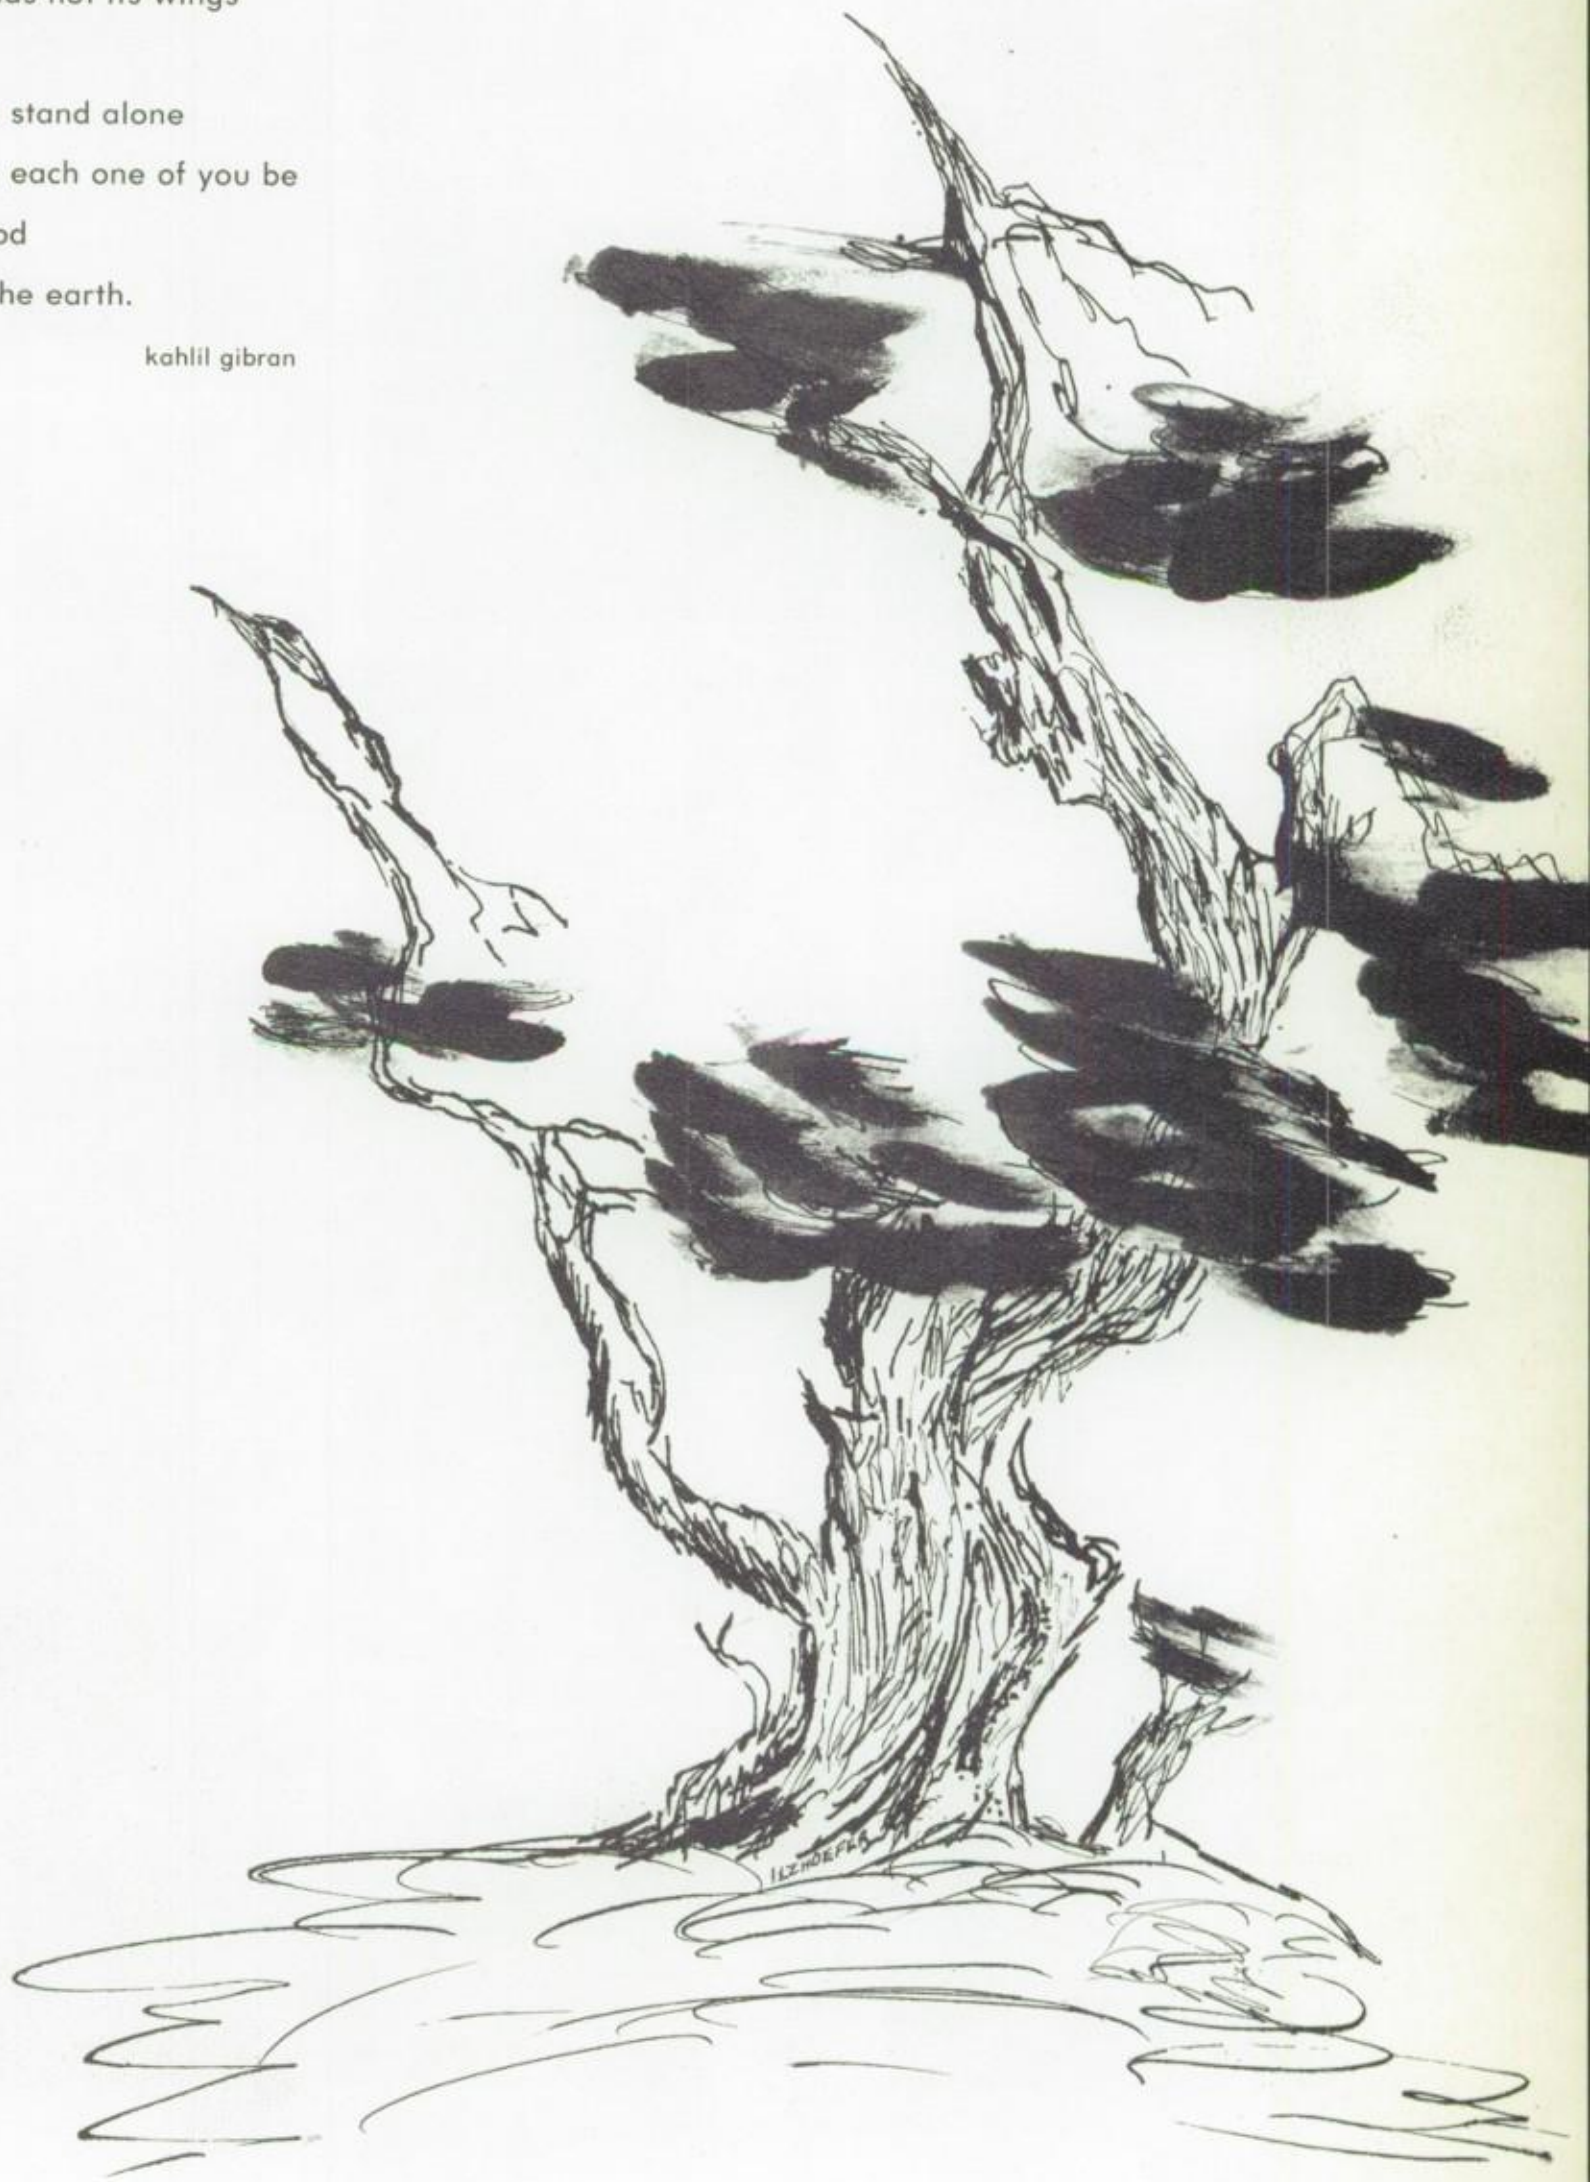

if, on leaving us, you have a fairly clear idea of the direction in which you are heading; if along the way you have discovered something about yourself, the values to live by and the key to a joyful and productive existence, then i—and all your teachers and advisors—can be satisfied that we have not failed you.

Speak to us of teaching:

no man can reveal to you aught but that which already lies half asleep in the dawning of your knowledge. . .
for the vision of one man lends not its wings to another man.
and even as each one of you stand alone in God's knowledge, so must each one of you be alone in his knowledge of God and in his understanding of the earth.

tell me why you're crying my son i know you're frightened like everyone is it the thunder in the distance you fear will it help if i stay very near,
 i am here.

and if you take my hand, my son
 all will be well when the day is done
 and if you take my hand, my son
 all will be well when the day is done
 day is done. . .

do you ask why i'm sighing, my son?
 you shall inherit what mankind has done in a world filled with sorrow and woe if you ask me why this is so, i don't know.

and if you take my hand, my son
 all will be well when the day is done
 and if you take my hand, my son
 all will be well when the day is done
 day is done. . .

tell me why you're smiling, my son is there a secret you can tell everyone?
 do you know more than men that are wise, can you see what we all disguise through your loving eyes?

and if you take my hand, my son
 all will be well when the day is done
 and if you take my hand, my son
 all will be well when the day is done
 day is done. . .

if words do indeed suffice, then permit me to choose those of william faulkner:

"... i decline to accept the end of man. it is easy enough to say that man is immortal simply because he will endure; that when the last ding-dong of doom has changed and faded from the last worthless rock hanging tideless in the last red and dying evening, that even then there will be one more sound: that of his puny inexhaustible voice, still talking. i refuse to accept this. i believe that man will not merely endure: he will prevail. he is immortal, not because he alone among creatures has an inexhaustible voice, but because he has a soul, a spirit capable of compassion and sacrifice and endurance. . . "

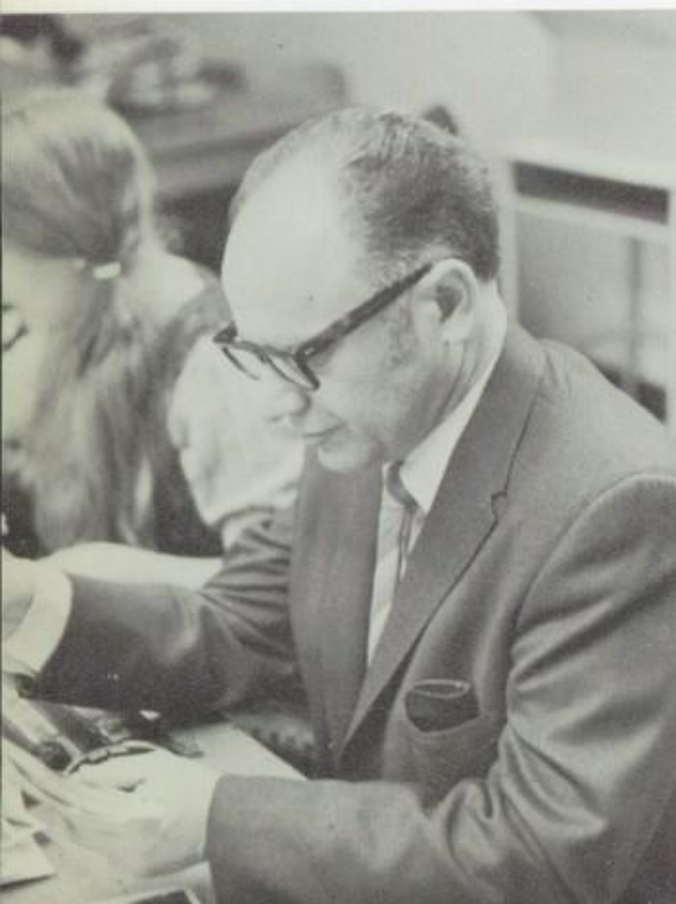

mr. marvin miller

during your past three years here at van buren, you have been an instrument of change in the g.o. it has gone from a group basically concerned with activities to one attempting to perform as a real voice of the students.

it has been a time of interest, change and a time of learning. i am pleased to have been involved with the g.o. during this period, and i hope that all of us have learned a great deal more about ourselves and the world around us.

mr. herbert abramowitz

for years, students have been told that they are the "citizens of tomorrow." we are witnessing a shift of time. adults are beginning to recognize that students are young adults who want to share in the responsibility of decision-making in those affairs which concern them.

i have found my work exciting. our students have many fine ideas on how to make school an even richer experience.

i dream'd in a dream

i dream'd in a dream i saw a city invincible to the attacks of the whole of the rest of the earth, i dream'd that was the new city of friends, nothing was greater there than the quality of robust love, it led the rest, it was seen every hour in the actions of the men of that city, and in all their looks and words.

soon we're gonna leave martin van buren, soon we're gonna leave van buren high four years of our lives have suddenly passed us by.

though the time has come to face the future,
and to school and friends we say good-bye, deep within our hearts are memories that won't die.

we've worked very hard through laughter and tears, and we find it so hard to accept this is our last year.
well, it doesn't seem right 'cause "sing's" part of our lives.
the work that we've done, the fun we've shared,
for the past two years we've tasted success so to win the trophy again this wasn't our quest but rather we've tried to give you a performance one you would enjoy, one that would convey the spirit of sing.
of course we've had fights, disagreements galore,
but that always holds true in a family.
that's what we've become, a union we're one we've been together from '68 to '70.

the bustling halls, through which we walk the sounds and sights grow dear.
the friendly faces that we see are mixed with frowns and tears.

we must go on, continue to try,
to van buren high we must say goodbye.
to van buren high we pledge our hearts, for it has meant so much.
and though we go our separate ways we will keep in touch.
we must go on, continue to try—
to van buren high we must say good-bye.

g.o. president

looking back now with little nostalgia, i have many diverse and conflicting thoughts. i recall a year of frustration, anger and disenchantment; yet we have never lost hope. it has been a trying time as we, the students, still quite unsure, attempted to unite a polarized school and community. we have all grown; as we have all learned about the struggle before us and the odds we face, but we have not lost courage nor conviction.

we have had our victories with constitutions, advisory councils, publications boards, black fashion shows and human relations, but we failed in our attempts to unite ourselves to common causes and directions. our petty grievances and adolescent immaturity have, at times, robbed us of greater accomplishments that should have been ours.

we have attempted to build upon the foundation laid for us by last year's leaders, and i sincerely believe that we have succeeded.

as the culmination of my term nears, these are my parting suggestions:

to the administration: a word of hope for an extended, positive attitude toward student responsibility and involvement. the seeds of cooperation have been sown, i pray that they are not allowed to die.

to the faculty: a word of caution—the time of student rights is now. it is 1970, but the majority of teachers at van buren have yet to accept this fact. i fear your current direction can only lead to more strife within the educational community. now is the time for you to reach out and form a successful faculty-student bond.

to the students and student leaders to follow: we have traveled a mile but there are more to travel until the people can receive the message. don't give up the struggle: too many have sacrificed too much.

today i am bitter, for i feel we could have done more. but if the small accomplishments and little victories continue, then we can justify our existence.

van buren has more problems now as we leave, but it seems more real than when we entered. right on!!

g.o. president

our aim: an understanding of truth by fostering the religious, intellectual and social interests of catholic students.

we believe, as john kennedy said, "the torch has been passed to a new generation of americans. . . " we think we can face this destiny with a courage, conviction and compassion unknown to past generations.
